what is the story grid the story grid is a tool developed by editor shawn coyne to analyze stories and provide helpful editorial comments it s like a ct scan that takes a photo of the global story and tells the editor or writer what is working what is not and what must be done to make what works better and fix what s not the story grid breaks down the component parts of stories to identify the problems and finding the problems in a story is almost as difficult as the writing of the story itself maybe even more difficult the story grid is a tool with many applications 1 it will tell a writer if a story works or doesn t work 2 it pinpoints story problems but does not emotionally abuse the writer revealing exactly where a story not the person creating the story the story has failed 3 it will tell the writer the specific work necessary to fix that story s problems 4 it is a tool to re envision and resuscitate a seemingly irredeemable pile of paper stuck in an attic drawer 5 it is a tool that can inspire an original creation in this book experts from the fields of law and philosophy explore the works of aristotle to illuminate the much debated and fascinating relationship between emotions and justice emotions matter in connection with democracy and equity they are relevant to the judicial enforcement of rights legal argumentation and decision making processes in legislative bodies and courts the decisive role that emotions feelings and passions play in these processes cannot be ignored not even by those who believe that emotions have no legitimate place in the public sphere a growing body of literature on these topics recognizes the seminal insights contributed by aristotle this book offers a comprehensive analysis of his thinking in this context as well as proposals for inspiring dialogues between his works and those written by a selection of modern and contemporary thinkers as such the book offers a valuable resource for students of law philosophy rhetoric politics ethics and history but also for readers interested in the ongoing debate about legal positivism and the relevance of emotions for legal and political life in today s world it is often seen that though organizations expend enormous resources into change initiatives these seldom yield the desired returns as succinctly put by schaffer and thompson 1992 most improvement efforts have as much impact on company performance as a rain dance has on the weather the most critical ingredient in any change effort is leadership and managing change is fundamentally a people issue several leaders failed because they attempted to create change through intellect alone without moving people emotionally goleman et al 2002 this paper explores how a leader can overlay the four fundamental principles of transformational leadership as defined by bass 1985 to the four stages of an individual's experience during change as postulated by janssen's four room apartment model of change the paper discusses these stages in terms of the challenges that individuals face to their values and identity ethos to their intellect logos and their emotions pathos and puts forward a suggested road map of behaviors and ideals that leaders must demonstrate to address each of these in order to bring about a successful change a transformational style of leadership that is empathetic to the dynamic human mind must connect to the individual at a very personal and emotional level appealing not only to his intellect but also his emotions at the psychological level to initiate and sustain successful change in organizations
